The Nationals Defeated by the Rochester

The Nationals Defeated by the Rochester Nine.

The Hop Bitters defeated the Nationals yesterday for the second time on the grounds of the home club, this time by a score of nine to four. Errors were quite pleutiful on both sides, but not half as bad as those committed by the umpire. Mr. Massica may be competent to full that position, but many people will not believe it who have seen him act in the last two games. In all the errors that he made not one was to the favor of the Nationals. This might give the look of puritiality, but when a man knows no better it would probably be more generous to attribute it to ignorance. Once or twice after the game, but better judgment prevailed. They wisely concluded that he succiators could see what was passing as well as themselves, and that to win they must play both the Hop Bitters and umpire. In their crippied condition the visiting term was all that they wanted to contend against. If every player had been sound and well doubtless the Nationals would have been foolish to have defeated in this city, ploubtless there are same, if the Nationals will only go to the trouble of looking them up, and then have a little something to way as to who shall fill that position when they play.

and then have a little something to say as to who shall fill that position when they play games at home, and not accept every stick that a visiting club names. They should profit a little by the experience they meet with when abroad. They ombatted the "Hops," but were excelled in fielding by the visitors. The same clubs play again this afternoon at District Cases in the Criminal Court. The business in the criminal court haringed along for the last two days and yes terday, about noon, the court ran out of work and Justice MacArthur toquired the cause. Assistant District Attorney Perry said that there were scarcely any cases remaining in jail ready for trial. Most of the prisoners there under indictment had, through their counsel, asked for a postponement of their hearings until fall, and he was left without much to do. When the grand jury met next week they might furnish him with some work. He proposed to give the court over to morrow to Mr. Francis Miller, who had a number of District cases on hand, and who has not had the court for one year.
